Dental Cost of Deploying a National Guard Unit to Bosnia

Guarantor: MAJ Jeffrey Chaffin, DC USA

Contributors: MAJ Jeffrey Chaffin, DC USA*; COL Sidney Brooks, DC USA†; LTC Phil Kahue, MSC USA*

Objectives: To examine the dental readiness of a National Guard (NG) unit mobilizing to Bosnia, to estimate the civilian comparable cost for the necessary treatment to make the unit deployable, and to examine the effect on the active component (AC) dental readiness. Materials and Methods: This study was a retrospective cohort analysis of dental fitness classifications (DFCs) and treatment provided for the 48th IN BDE (Mech) upon mobilization for a 6-month deployment to Bosnia. The NG unit mobilized through Fort Stewart, Georgia, from December 2000 through February 2001 en route to a 6-month deployment starting in February 2001. All soldiers received dental examinations and were classified in one of four DFCs. DFC 1 implies that the soldier has no dental treatment needs; DFC 2 indicates that the soldier needs dental treatment, but the condition is not expected to cause an emergency in the next 12 months; DFC 3 indicates that significant oral conditions present are expected to cause an emergency in the next 12 months; DFC 4 indicates that the soldier is in need of a dental examination. Dental treatment was provided for all DFC 3 soldiers. A database was created of DFCs of deploying soldiers upon arrival at the mobilization site and dental procedures performed. Results: This retrospective review identified 1,378 soldiers who processed through the dental station at the mobilization site. Soldiers DFCs were as follows: DFC 1, 7.8%; DFC 2, 50.1%; DFC 3, 25.0%; DFC 4, 17.1%.

12 months, and soldiers in DFC 2 require routine treatment; their conditions present are not expected to cause a dental emergency in the next 12 months.^{3,4} DFCs are important for mobilization, because previous studies have shown that soldiers classified as DFC 3, meaning that the soldier has a condition that will probably escalate into a dental emergency within 12 months, suffer dental emergencies during deployments at a significantly higher rate than those in DFCs 1 and 2.^{5,6} DFC 4 indicates that the soldier requires a dental examination.

Dental readiness is a highly visible activity during mobilization because soldiers classified as DFC 3 are nondeployable without a waiver by a general officer.⁷ Numerous reports have indicated that the dental readiness of the RC is dramatically poorer than that of the active component (AC). Jones reported that 23.8% of NG personnel assigned to the 7th Infantry Division were DFC 3 in 1999.⁸ A study by Chaffin and Horning found that 27.5% of the RC personnel had oral conditions responsible for their being categorized as DFC 3.⁹ Fearon found that 26.5% of Alaskan reservists processing through Operation Call Forward 95 were DFC 3.¹⁰ Other reports cite DFC 3 rates for the RC ranging from 27 to 57%.^{11,12}

The screenshot shows the homepage of the HQ Air Reserve Personnel Center website. The browser's address bar displays "rc.af.mil/subjects.htm". The website features a blue header with the title "HQ Air Reserve Personnel Center" and a navigation bar with links: "Main Subjects", "Assignments", "Promotions", "Publications & Forms", "Retirements Separations Points", and "A-Z Site Map". The main content area is divided into three columns. The left column lists various services and resources, including address changes, AF Reserve Advisory Board, Air National Guard, awards & decorations, BIMAAs, biographies, briefings/conferences, chaplain services, contacting ARPC, customer assistance, education & training, entitlements, family assistance, and frequently asked questions. The middle column contains three graphics: "Hot off the press" with a newspaper icon, "On-line customer service" with a person at a computer icon, and "ARPC status" with a sun and clouds icon. The right column lists additional services: health services, hometown blue, individual reserve guide, join the Air Force Reserve, judge advocate, MA information, mobilization/demobilization, orders/travel, plans and policy, program managers, public affairs, recognition programs, virtual MPF, and WOTS. At the bottom, there are links for "On-line Customer Service" and "Top".

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the address bar displaying http://www.afpc.randolph.af.mil/km/vMPF_Portal/vMPF_Portal.htm. The main content area features the virtualMPF logo, which includes the Air Force Personnel Center (AFPC) shield and the text "virtualMPF Air Force Personnel Center • Randolph AFB, Texas". Below the logo, a horizontal line separates the header from the main text. The text reads: "To learn more about the vMPF, go to the Knowledge Management website." Another horizontal line follows. The next section, in red text, states: "AFPC Web applications will be unavailable Saturday, 9 Nov 02 from 1800 hours until Sunday, 10 Nov 02 0600 hours and Monday, 11 Nov 02 from 0700 to 1500." Below this, another red text block says: "AFPC Secure is now PKI enabled for use of DoD PKI certificates. Clicking the wrong buttons can cause you to have an error. To read more on this and avoid the error, click here." This is followed by a graphic with the U.S. Air Force logo on either side of a box that says "CLICK HERE for the vMPF". Below the box, it says "(Through the AFPC Secure Server)". A red text note follows: "Note: You will not be able to use your AMS/AFAS password." Another horizontal line is present. The text then says: "Learn about a new emerging system for the vMPF called virtual Out Processing (vOP). Click on the picture below to view the on-line briefing." At the bottom, there is a graphic with a fighter jet on the left and the text "vMPF Out Processing Actions" on the right.
